

Cruel Burnet hoax embroils new Georgetown police chief

by Jim Lewis

To begin with, it was a nasty trick: Around 1 a.m. on Sunday, April 13, a youngish fellow wearing a ski mask and sunglasses stuck an empty gun in the face of the 16-year-old dispatcher of the Burnet Sheriff Department, clicked the trigger and scared the poor girl near to death.

What apparently started as a tasteless prank has mushroomed into the biggest ruckus to hit Burnet since a tornado touched down in March, 1973, demolishing 150 homes and businesses and injuring 40 persons.

Ignoring the side issues and related incidents, of interest to Georgetown residents is that Burnet Police Chief Travis Thomas, who will become Georgetown's police chief May 1, has been accused by two men who confess to pulling off the prank that he put them up to it.

A second charge is that on the night dispatcher Jama Bostick, 16, screamed long and hard on the sheriff's radio for any help the Lord or the sheriff's department could give, Chief Thomas supposedly participated in an alleged illegal search of a pickup truck of a two-time candidate for Burnet sheriff.

On the first charge, Thomas defends himself by explaining that he was looking for a house in Georgetown when he allegedly approached the two pranksters and asked them the favor of scaring Miss Bostick. And besides, he noted, the idea that a respected law officer would propose such a trick is "absurd".

And on the alleged search, Thomas won't say whether he made the search, just that he "looked in the pickup."

Instigator of the entire controversy, Thomas told the Sun Thursday, is the Marble Falls Highlander newspaper, which has printed lengthy articles on the situation in its past two editions (April 17 and 24). Thomas noted that the Highlander has a reputation for anti-establishment reporting.

In last Thursday's Highlander, Woody Odneal,

19, and Phillip Nelson, 21, admitted in signed statements that they frightened the girl, but said they did it after Thomas approached them on a supermarket parking lot between 1 and 2 p.m. the previous day and asked them to do it as a "favor" if they had "nothing better to do." They did not say why Thomas would want the girl scared.

Odneal and Nelson claimed they talked it over a while and finally decided about 12:30 a.m. to give it a try.

Thomas told the Sun, as he had told the Marble

Falls paper, that he asked no one to scare anybody.

"No sir," Thomas said firmly, forcefully, "I didn't talk to those two punks at all Saturday."

Thomas said he and his wife left Burnet at noon that day to look for a new home in Georgetown, whose city council had hired him in early April as police chief. He said Jeannie Simpson, a Georgetown Realtor, had shown him several houses and that he had returned to Burnet about 6:30 to 6:45 p.m.

Mrs. Simpson told the Sun that Thomas' story checks out. She said they toured some of the nicer homes in Georgetown "the greater part of the afternoon" and left the Thomases at the Oak Crest subdivision about 5:45 p.m.

Informed of the accusations against Thomas, Mrs. Simpson said, "I don't know him well, but he certainly didn't seem to be the kind of man who would pull a stunt like that."

Odneal and Nelson, who are in hiding presently and could not be reached by the Sun, told the Highlander that they believed they would never have been caught if they had not confessed. They said they realized they might now be prosecuted for violations of the law.

Thomas told the Sun he was hesitant to believe the pair's confession: "First they lied about me being involved, so why shouldn't they lie about the whole thing?"

"What I really think is, the Highlander started it all. They have a long history of undermining all authority in this county — city councils, schools, county court, law officers, you name it.

Circleville Philosopher Does Something Unheard-of: Tries His Hand at Reviewing a Book

Editor's note: The Circleville Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on the San Gabriel abandons world affairs this week to do something highly uncharacteristic.

Dear editor:

Me reviewing a book is about like a tractor driver trying to land a four-engine jet on a short run-way, but this week I've tackled the problem, letting world affairs slide for a few days.

The reason I tackled it is that the publisher sent me a free copy of the book with a note saying, "Here, this'll get your mind off of the world's troubles."

He's right. It got my mind off of nearly everything. The world's problems are no laughing matter, but this book is.

Anyway, it's called "THE 2000-MILE TURTLE, And Other Episodes From Editor Harold Smith's Private Journal," and I don't see how it's going to sell because there's no sex or four-letter words in it. Certainly it isn't fit material for modern movies.

It tells about how an editor — not the editor of The SUN — succeeded in the newspaper business with the slightly underhanded use of a huge turtle, plus a lot of other things, like how to fix a leaky roof if you leave town before the second rain, how to sell barbwire to a doctor, how a high school football player got even with a referee without hitting him, how to out-smart the post office, how a legislator who doesn't leave office richer than he went in is considered by his fellow-members as incompetent, how a Congressman went down to defeat because he read one of his home district's newspapers too closely, how to get everybody to vote without the politicians' spending a single cent, how an editor out-witted some old codgers around the courthouse square, and a lot of other stuff all innocently told in a sort of unclassifiable book.

I'd lend my copy to anybody who's interested but the author claims it'd be against the principles of the welfare state, if not unpatriotic. Says use your tax rebate and buy your own.

Yours faithfully,

J.A.

(Editor's note: The book referred to, "The 2000-Mile Turtle," written by H. B. Fox, is on sale at The SUN or Heritage office at $7.95.)

the passing glance

It's ironic, isn't it, that Big John had to call on his friends from the Democratic party to convince the jury he hadn't taken a bribe from his erstwhile pal Jake Jacobson. Without the character testimony given by Lady Bird Johnson and Barbara Jordan the jury's verdict might have been different.

I AM DELIGHTED that Connally came through the ordeal with his skin intact. The government had a thin reed to rely on in Jacobson and should never have brought charges against the former Texas governor. Even though the jury voted in his favor the trial destroyed his chances at a national office, especially the presidency which he might have had either as a Democrat or Republican. It's a strange coincidence, but the trial put him squarely in bed with Ted Kennedy, who under extraordinary circumstances could oppose him for the Democratic nomination or as an opponent if he obtained the Republican nomination, which isn't likely either way. There is no doubt, on the face of it, that Kennedy is the strongest candidate the Democrats can present, yet voters are bound to weigh him in the light of what happened when the car he was driving carried Mary Jo Kopechne to her death, just the same as they would consider and wonder about John Connally and his close dealings with a crook called Jake Jacobson and his association with the Watergate kids.

She came in to give us a change of address and I believe there were tears in her eyes.

SHE WAS MRS. MONTY GUNN whose husband lost his job when Westinghouse shifted gears and is taking his family to Baton Rouge, La. where he will be a chemical technician for Shell Chemical.

The Gunns, like a number of others, came to Georgetown two years ago and became good citizens of the community they expected to call home for many years. But now, so soon, it's moving time.

"We have so many good friends here," Mrs. Gunn who came to America six years ago from her native Norway, said. "We drove all the way over here from Florida when my husband was offered this job and we decided right then that this was the place we would feel at home. We bought a house in River Oaks and the two years have been a wonderful time!" she exclaimed. The Gunn family, which includes a nine year old daughter, Denise, left Saturday. We are sorry they and others like them must leave. The Westinghouse people are top citizens, the kind of people any town is proud and fortunate to have.

Incidentally, Mrs. Gunn said a relation visited her recently and tried without much success to buy picture postcards of this pretty town. "You should have more printed up," she advised.

Anybody want to buy a bank?

With several officials in the county courthouse reporting they're running out of office space, County Commissioners are trying to sell a 120-by-130-foot building across the street from the courthouse.

The old Farmers State Bank Building, purchased by the county in January, 1967, when Citizens State Bank moved to a new building, will go on the trading block as soon as commissioners arrange the proper legal papers to advertise the structure for sale.

At the same time, County Clerk Dick Cervena reports his office will no longer have room for county documents in another nine months to a year.

"We're running out of space already," Cervena said, noting his office is already lacking room to place filing cabinets against the walls.

He said he has already had to move court records across the hall into another office, while old marriage and birth certificates are being kept in the basement, which occasionally floods.

Among other offices, County Treasurer Viola Honeycutt said, "We don't have too much. Everything is getting pretty well filled up."

And Tax Assessor-Collector William Buck said he's "cramped. We definitely need more space." He pointed out he had to store part of 17,000 license plates in his lobby in 5-foot high stacks.

While County Judge C. L. Chance admitted, "We don't have a lot of room," he said he doubts the old Farmers State Bank building would be suitable for expanding county operations into.

"It's not clear to me yet just what we'll do for office space," Chance said. "But we have several possibilities, such as making more use of microfilming records.

"That's the only thing I'm at liberty to talk about right now," he said.

The judge then modified his earlier statement that the county was low on office space, suggesting the county could make adjustments in the court house and still not need to construct a new building for four or five years.

But he doesn't think the old bank would solve the problem.

"That old building is practically impossible to air condition, and the ceiling is 25 feet high," he said, adding that two old concrete vaults with steel doors are lodged permanently in the structure.

"It would require all kinds of work to make it worth our while," he said, "and besides, that facade on the front, as nice as it is, is nothing but a nasty pigeon roost."

Chance said the county could always add a floor to the recently-completed county health building on Third Street.

GEORGETOWN HIGH SCHOOL A'CAPPELLA CHOIR — made a fine showing at the Region XVIII University Interscholastic League Concert and Sight-Reading Contest in Austin Wednesday. Competing against choral groups from Austin, Bryan, College Station, Seguin, Brenham, New Braunfels, Round Rock and Taylor, this choir received a second division rating in both concert and sight reading. They sang for the SUN photographer, who can vouch for their beautiful sounds. Seated from front left around to right: Debbie Morgan, Lynn Gauthier, Linda Amidon, Janice

Jarrell says thanks but no thanks

Jarrell School Superintendent A. J. Lytle said Friday morning, "We have not even considered consolidation."

Lytle was referring to a recommendation made Monday night by Georgetown School Board member Dr. Doug Benold that figures be compiled to determine the financial statistics involved in consolidation of the two school districts.

Dr. Benold had suggested that Georgetown extend "a friendly offer" to the Jarrell district whose citizens recently defeated a proposed $650,000 bond program by a 4-1 margin.

Newly elected school board member in Jarrell Bud C. Stockton said, "I am looking at alternatives — what is best for the taxpayers and what is best for the students."

"At this time I could not give an educated opinion of what is best because I do not have all the facts before me," Stockton added. He was elected to the school board April 5.

Stockton continued, "I am not offended by Georgetown's offer. In fact, I see it as a token of friendship."

The newly elected school board member said he opposed the bond election because "it would have provided about $537,000 for actual program that large would bankrupt the community," Stockton said.

Lytle accused the Georgetown "offer" of being premature. "Everyone seems to think we have lost our school in Jarrell. Well, that just isn't so. The current building is structurally sound," he said.

Although the Texas Education Agency has found the present facilities to have inadequacies, Lytle contended, the school district may be able to correct those.

The district reports to TEA in June and a decision as to what it will do will be reached after that time, Lytle said. The agency normally gives a district one year before they cut off state funds to a school.

JISD has another architectural firm, according to Lytle, who is developing plans for a smaller and less expensive building than the first proposed high school.

The $650,000 bond program would have built a school to house grades 7-12. The facility would have included seven classrooms, a new science laboratory with lecture rooms, a new cafeteria and kitchen, a home economics department, a new library and learning resource center, adequate restrooms, work areas, storage space and administrative offices.

The funds generated by the proposed bond sale would have provided about $537,000 for actual building construction, $56,000 for equipment and an estimated $47,000 for additional fees.

Extra funds would have been spent to remodel the current high school building. The auditorium in that building would be retained since it is the only meeting place in the community, Lytle pointed out.

"If we had gotten the $650,000 it would have put the district in good shape for several years to come," Lytle said.

"There are still several alternatives for the district before it will consider consolidation," Lytle said.

The SUN was unable to contact Jarrell School Board president Jimmy Sybert Friday.

Week's news in a nutshell

FOUR NEW BUSES for Georgetown schools will have to be purchased at a cost of $60,000. GISD Business Manager Jerry Graham told trustees. A recent ruling by the Texas Education Agency states that pupils may no longer stand in the bus aisles. Previously a dozen children were allowed in the aisles of each 72-passenger bus.

GEORGETOWN VOTERS agreed that state legislators needed a raise, by a vote of 1582 to 1436, a margin of 146 votes. In Burnet County voters narrowly defeated the pay raise proposal, 751 to 738. Llano County residents also rejected more pay for lawmakers, 461 to 312.

SOUTH VIETNAMESE PRESIDENT Nguyen Van Thieu resigned Monday while launching a bitter attack on the U. S. government — especially former President Richard M. Nixon — for allegedly failing to enforce the 1973 Paris Peace Agreement. Talk that Thieu would resign so that a new peace could be reached with the Viet Cong had been prevalent for several weeks, but many believed his resignation may have been too late to prevent a Viet Cong rout.

TEXAS VOTERS, apparently tired of state lawmakers continually asking for a raise, approved a constitutional amendment Tuesday increasing their pay from $4,800 to $7,200 per year. Although legislators had proposed higher pay six different times since 1960, one capitol observer reported lawmakers seemed less-than-excited on Wednesday, apparently feeling the raise was long overdue.

Paul Harvey

Our nation is suffering most from an overload of outsiders. If all of the illegal immigrants — the outsiders now in our country illegally — were sent home, unemployment in the United States would be zero.

THAT'S RIGHT, THERE ARE THAT MANY

For years, before the situation became acute, I urged closing the door to further immigration, legal and otherwise, until ecological and economic prospects could be evaluated.

You and I were anxious, then, that increasing population pollution and increasing unemployment would eventually become embarrassing and worse to the millions of additional immigrants which our country welcomes each year.

Despite mushrooming unemployment, the door is still open.

Let's make a distinction here.

Texans are likely to think this criticism is focused on their river border with Mexico.

It's not. I appreciate more than most that Mexican back- backs are coming into the United States seasonally to rescue crops which have to be handpicked because most home folks prefer welfare to that kind of reach-and-get-it hard work.

WHILE THIS LOWER VALLEY situation perhaps deserves increasing scrutiny it is more likely to increase our nation's productivity.

The immigration, legal and illegal, which is depleting our energies and our resources is that which converges on and tries to lose itself in the big cities.

Commissioner Leonard Chapman of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service has spoken out on this subject, but New York-based news media appear disinclined to quote any criticism of immigration, fearful of offending the large foreign-born segment of that city's population.

It is the foreign born and legally adopted Americans who have most to lose as resentment builds against outsiders per se. Legal immigrants continue to enter our country at the rate of 400,000 a year, but illegal immigrants are pouring in by the millions!

Commissioner Chapman concedes there are so many that the number is incalculable; the onrushing tide is "virtually out of control." He says that in recent decades even those nations which don't have enough food to eat have enough television sets to see that the United States is the land of milk and honey. They flock here at any risk.

MANY ARE SMUGGLED IN for a price with forged credentials and with no skills, and with those credentials they end up on welfare rolls. Illegal immigrants are probably costing California $100 million this year!

Last fiscal year the immigration service caught up with 800,000 illegal aliens but concede that three to four times that many entered the United States last year and were not caught.

We have 7 million unemployed; we have 8 million workers in our country illegally. The effect is ominous and worsening every day.

Terror to come!

Some day, probably within five years, one of the big cities of the United States is going to be totally terrified by an atomic bomb threat. The panic will be unreal.

EVERY DAY NEW STRIDES are made in manufacturing an inexpensive atomic bomb. Only this week a new isotope enrichment technique using laser beams raised the possibility that uranium fuel for atomic bombs might be more accessible to terrorist groups or small countries that don't have nuclear weapons. In other words, the process of constructing an atomic bomb is now well known and the chief expensive and scarce ingredient — uranium fuel — will soon be available.

World-wide and nation-wide crime syndicates, with enormous money and power will be able to build the bomb, probably with scientists they employ from other countries, and once they have the thing located inside any major city, which should be as easy as bringing in a load of furniture to any downtown apartment, the terror will be only hours away.

THEN, A NOTE to the newspaper or the TV station will begin the nightmare. There will probably be a demand for total evacuation of the city, say Washington, D.C., coupled with a permanent type of payoff running into the billions of dollars. What a stampede! Congress, the president and the bureaucrats would be off and flying in minutes with the population hard on their heels. It's almost beyond imagination but it has to be somewhere in our future. When it comes it could be the beginning of the end, or the end of the beginning; anyway, it would be out of sight, man, out of sight!

And even the Williamson County Sun can't imagine how it can be prevented, or dealt with. The terrorists would hold a mighty strong hand.

Burnett's works are published

To be published in the fall issue of NEW AND EXPERIMENTAL LITERATURE, an anthology published by Texas Center Writers Press of Midland, is a poem entitled "Murmur" by Tibb Burnett, instructor in dance and member of the departments of theatre and physical education at Southwestern University.

Burnett's short story, entitled "Holding On", appears in THE TEXAS QUARTERLY (Vol. XV, No. 3), a publication of the University of Texas at Austin.

Burnett's works in progress include two novels, a collection of short stories, and three collections of poetry.

A native Texan, Burnett of Leander and Austin is a graduate of West Texas State University. A former professional dancer, Burnett has studied ballet, modern and character dance in Chicago with John Petri and Frances Allis and in New York at Ballet Theatre School, Ballet Russe School, Ballet Arts School, and Igor Youshevitsh School.

Burnett joined the Southwestern University faculty in 1965. He and his wife, the former Georgeanne Reynolds of Austin, live near Leander.

What you can get for your $200

By Roderick Nordell

When you're the first passenger to board the pre-dawn bus it's hard not to have a little fraternal conversation with the bus driver. And when the talk turned to the $200 rebate for American taxpayers the other morning, the driver said that frankly he wasn't going to buy anything new, he was going to pay bills he already owed.

Many people, if not on the same bus, are in the same boat. But we can dream can't we? And a quick informal survey shows how far that $200 will go in various directions (or would go at this writing).

How about 200 pounds of 99-cent pot roast, with enough left over for mustard? Or 600 heads of iceberg lettuce at three for a buck?

Yes, you can get a little something in gold for $200 — a neck chain 15 inches long. Or, if you'll settle for silver, the rebate will cover a 30-inch sterling necklace with bracelet and earrings to match.

Maybe you'd like a bit of help repairing the patio. Your rebate ought to obtain about 20 hours of a bricklayer's time, depending on locality and fringe benefits.

Or, if you want to get away from it all, the $200 will take care of two thirds of a five-day package tour to the Gaspé Peninsula — by train from Montreal.

Would you believe 20 copies of a best-selling novel — that's right, a novel for $10 a copy (in case you haven't bought one since Hemingway's "The Old Man and the Sea" was $3 two decades ago). Or you could play host to a party of 20 at a Broadway show, unless it's a musical, to which you could get only about a dozen of the best seats for $200.

You could see 200 movies — on Monday or Tuesday "dollar night" if your neighborhood theater has one — or maybe only 65 or 50 or even 40 if you insist on first-run pictures downtown. Or stay at home with one of the new small black-and-white TVs for $150, leaving plenty of change for snacks. (Though it may be sobering to think that $200 buys only 1,000 candy bars now when it used to buy four times as many.)

If you don't want to stir from the tube to do the housework, your $200 will obtain 80 hours of maid service, though many come higher. Or you could spend a week or 10 days at a hotel, meals extra.

If there are babies around the house, you might go for 10 of the folding high chairs which Consumer Reports describes as "a best buy." But $200 would cover only two five-speed high-rise bicycles for older children. As for baby sitters, how about 200 hours of our teen-age daughter? (Or even more from President Ford's daughter, Susan, who says her rates are "between 75 cents and a dollar an hour" with full Secret Service protection thrown in.)

Should the world of $200 decisions — barely touched on here — leave you in a fog, your rebate will bring 500 eight-ounce, finger-pump containers of window cleaner and defogger. Everything clear now?

Letters from readers are welcome. All are subject to condensation. We assume no responsibility for statements made.

To the Citizens & All Concerned.

We are trailerites and Senior Citizens on our winter journey thru your town. We asked a young barber just east of the square on 29 about a trailer park. The busy man took time out to call the Chamber of Commerce office for information, and then directed us to your City Park (3 free days).

We hooked up and Saturday we saw an errorless ball game by the college competitors end in a 3 to 1 win by home team. You won't see better ball played in big leagues. Then we saw the kids hardly school age play with unbelievable ability, coached by citizens who really worked as hard as the kids.

We had a barbecue lunch sponsored by VFW. We shopped your stores for groceries, incidentals, used your coin laundry, and otherwise enjoyed outstanding hospitality from all our contacts.

Florencites hear about Texas Parole

by Dot Goff, special SUN writer

Richard Fortenberry of Austin was guest of the Florence Chamber of Commerce at its monthly meeting in the Steak Emporium April 22.

Fortenberry is the director of the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles, and he presented a vivid and interesting picture of the work of the Board.

Using as his topic "Parole in Texas," Fortenberry told more than 40 Florence citizens that parole in Texas was the release from legal custody, outside "the walls," but still serving their prison sentence. He pointed out that contrary to some belief, parole does not shorten the prison sentence at all.

In order for a prisoner to be eligible for parole, said Fortenberry, the prisoner must meet many requirements. They must have served or earned one third of their sentence before being eligible and many things enter into whether or not a person is ready for parole. When he has met these tests for readiness, then the prisoner will come up for parole before the Board, which acts in an advisory capacity to the governor.

According to Fortenberry, who has had many years with the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles, in many capacities, Texas leads in compliance with the United States Supreme Court rules in regards to parolees and he gave high praise to the parole officers, saying they were not like those officers often portrayed in novels, on television and in the movies.

"Parole officers are a dedicated group," said Fortenberry, "and they are well educated men who cannot afford to make a wrong decision in regard to the men with whom they are working in an effort to re-instate them into society."

Fortenberry said that the state of Texas has one of the lowest rates of revocation of parolees in the nation and in round figures, it means a saving of some five million dollars a year, simply by giving the parolee supervision instead of prison.

Fortenberry was introduced by Mrs. Helen Whittenberg of Florence, secretary of the Chamber.

Dan Kubiak

AUSTIN — With fewer than 40 working days left in the 64th Legislature, the subcommittee working on public school finance still had not produced an education reform bill when this newsletter was released.

However, the subcommittee knows now that the House Public Education Committee will not accept the "weighted-pupil" approach to school funding favored by the Governor. By a 6-5 vote, the full committee approved my motion endorsing the program approach contained in my school finance bill. The Texas State Teachers Association also favors the program approach.

The Committee vote should make it easy for the subcommittee to choose between the weighted-pupil and program approaches. It has been unable to make that choice so far and has failed to meet two deadlines for reporting an education bill.

The weighted-pupil approach, as I have pointed out repeatedly, allows manipulation of funds at the local level and has proven unsatisfactory in states that have tried it.

I intend to continue to pressure the subcommittee to report a school finance bill. The legislature failed two years ago to act on school finance reform, and the 2.5 million school children of Texas cannot be neglected until the next legislature meets two years from now.

Higher Education Funds: The House Appropriations Committee has wisely decided to reject most of the Higher Education Committee's changes in funding for state colleges and universities.

Rep. Fred Head of Austin, chairman of the higher education panel, had recommended trimming the Legislative Budget Board recommendations by $62 million. But he also asked for $52 million in his own recommendations, and most of that money would have gone to a few institutions favored by Head.

The Appropriations Committee decided to stick to the budget board's original recommendations as their working document. The state's university system as a whole will profit by this decision.

Beef Imports Restricted: The House has approved a bill banning imported beef purchases by the state, cities, counties, schools and other public bodies in Texas.

I strongly supported this measure. Texas beef raisers have been hard-hit by declining cattle prices, even though high processing costs have kept beef prices high on the retail market. The least the state government can do is buy home-grown beef from Texas ranchers.

Interest, Energy Bills: Since my last report, the House also killed a bad bill raising insurance interest to 18% and passed legislation requiring state buildings to meet stringent energy conservation standards.

The interest bill would have let insurance companies charge up to 18% on policies paid for on credit. The House overhauled the measure and approved a maximum of 10% on interest.

I opposed both the 18 and 10% figures.

In addition to setting standards for the state, the energy conservation bill gives cities power to adopt energy conservation standards in their local building codes.

My offices are open Monday through Friday, and I hope my constituents will get in touch if I may be of service. In Austin, my address is Box 2910, zip 78767, and my room number is G-66D. In Rockdale, my address is 237 Ackerman, zip 76567. Austin phone number is 512-475-3563; in Rockdale, the number is 446-2839.

Kubiak urges cut in budget to free funds for education

Gov. Dolph Briscoe and leaders in both houses of the legislature should use their influence to cut about $500 million from the state budget in order to free up that sum for public school finance, Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale said Thursday.

Kubiak said proposed increases in state agency spending, coupled with Briscoe's pledge to veto any tax measure, have restricted funds available for school finance reform to around $500 million. At least twice that amount is needed, he said.

"There is presently insufficient money for both school finance equalization and a decent teacher pay raise," Kubiak said. "Unless we get strong leadership in trimming the budget, we will end up doing a mediocre and at best patchwork job at best."

Proposed spending increases in higher education, correctional programs, administrative spending and other budget areas could be reduced or postponed, Kubiak said, to provide more money for education reform.

"I am not saying these areas do not need additional money, but if school finance is our top priority, we need to start treating it that way," Kubiak said. "Whatever education bill we pass, we need more leadership in cutting approximately $500 million from other budget requests."

Liberals and conservatives alike should unite behind the effort to reduce general appropriations by a sufficient amount to pay for public school equity, Kubiak said.

"The increased spending and desirable goals in Legislative Budget Board recommendations could be deferred — painful as that might be — until 1977, when the Governor is not bound by a pledge of no new taxes," Kubiak said.

Kubiak, former chairman of the House Education Committee, is sponsor of one of the school finance reform measures before the House.

Florence plans Friendship Days

By Dot Goff
special SUN writer

More than forty members of the Florence Chamber of Commerce met Tuesday night at the Steak Emporium for their April meeting.

Presiding was vice president Claude Brizendine. The Rev. Frank Etheridge gave the invocation.

The Chamber voted to pay for half of the fee necessary to send a Florence Boy Scout to the Philmont Camp, June 26 for 2-3 weeks. Mike Hubbard will attend the camp from Florence, according to Robert Chambers.

In other business, Mrs. Jewel Hamilton announced that the date for the annual Florence Friendship Days had been set for August 1-2. All fraternal, social and religious organizations of the city and the surrounding area are being urged to take part in the event. Mrs. Hamilton announced that committees had already been chosen and work begun on the two day celebration.

Assisting Mrs. Hamilton in the committee selection was Mrs. Olene Stewart. Mrs. Pauline Mullen was named chairman of publicity and advertising; she will be assisted by Mrs. "Sis" Beck, Mrs. Dot L. Goff, Mrs. Deanie Deedy and Mrs. Gevonne Knippa. Joe Earl Massey will be chairman of registration and booth assignments, assisted by Rev. Ed Jennings, Mrs. Mary Alice Alberts and Mr. and Mrs. Oran Gray.

"Doc" and Elsie Walker will be head of the entertainment committee assisted by Mrs. David Meredith, Mrs. Robert Chambers and Mrs. Treva Clark. B. M. Beck, David Meredith and Rev. Bernard Stein will serve on the auction committee. The Florence Volunteer Firemen will compose the clean-up committee.

Mrs. Effie McLeod, president of the American Legion Post Auxiliary presented Bryce D. McCray with his certificate for being chosen by the Chamber as the March "Citizen of the Month." The American Legion Auxiliary nominates two citizens each month for their contribution to the welfare of the city and the area in general. Bill Isbell was chosen as citizen for the month of April and will be recognized at the May 27 meeting to be held at 7 p.m. at the Steak Emporium.

Robert Chambers, mayor of the city announced that the Florence Volunteer Firemen were sponsoring a circus to be held Tuesday, April 29 in Florence, for the benefit of the Fire Department.

ON THEIR WAY TO STATE! — in U.I.L. competition are these Georgetown High School students who have won contests to the big top one. Left to right, Terrell Benold, science and slide rule; John McMaster, informative speaking; Kathy Schneider, typing; Stanley Buck, slide rule. State competition is May 2 in Austin.

Church bus for Florence

The First Baptist Church of Florence has a new bus which picked up 35 riders on its maiden run last Sunday.

The bus leaves the church at 8:30 a.m. and picks up worshippers at Youngsfort, Whispering Oaks, Shady Acres and Rocking Sea estates.

ART EXHIBIT — of the work of Zinna B. Vance of Liberty Hill is hanging in the lobby of First National Bank of Georgetown. Mrs. Vance paints in oils, acrylics, watercolor, pastels and inks. Her paintings will be exhibited at the bank for the balance of the month.

TWQB decision delayed by Bertram officials

The City of Bertram's application for a permit to discharge treated effluent into the South San Gabriel River was removed from the Texas Water Quality Board (TWQB) agenda Tuesday at the request of the Bertram City Attorney Everett Smith.

The week before TWQB staff and Hearing Commission released a report on the permit request recommending that a "no discharge" permit be granted.

Bertram had planned a $600,000 sewer treatment plant that would discharge a daily average of 200,000 gallons of treated domestic sewage into an unnamed tributary of the South San Gabriel River.

The report states that the Hearing Commission's opinion is that the best method for disposal in Bertram's case is by irrigation and prohibits any discharge into or adjacent to any waters of the state.

"The commission feels that further looking should develop land near enough to Bertram on which the effluent could be disposed of by irrigation, although city officials feel that all possibilities have been explored," the report continued. A detailed outline of how the irrigation system could be developed is included in the report.

STRONG OPPOSITION
Property owners along the river in Williamson County have claimed that the discharge would pollute the San Gabriel and endanger the health of swimmers and other people who use the water.

Thirteen persons registered as opponents to the permit at the first public hearing held in January.

At the second hearing in February, 28 persons registered opposition. Letters opposing the application were received from approximately 18 persons, the report states. A petition with 80 names is on file opposing the application.

Jim Moore, TWQB hydrologist and hearings examiner said Tuesday afternoon that one of the main reasons for recommending the no discharge permit is the river's classification for contact recreation.

The Engineering Analysis Section of the TWQB did a special study to evaluate the effects of the discharge on the quality of the river.

Tom Remaley, a TWQB engineer who conducted the study, indicated that the discharge proposed by the City of Bertram for the plant would impair the river's water quality during low flow periods.

Remaley recommended that a "zero discharge permit" or a permit requiring the effluent to be of higher quality during low flow periods be issued.

"If Bertram is granted the permit it has asked for, Remaley said, "there is a real chance that a dissolved oxygen problem will develop during low flow conditions when the plant is operating at the proposed level."

CITY'S STANCE
According to the Highlander newspaper, Bertram officials requested "at least a six month delay to consider the recommendations and their alternatives."

Smith was quoted as saying, "We (Bertram officials) thought we were in compliance with the TWQB standards, but when we received the letter (including the reports), we realized for the first time that we needed more time to consider it with the staff recommendation and new water standards."

Moore said further hearings will be held.

FLORENCE NEWS

BY MRS. J. E. CASKEY

Recent visitors in Georgia and Alabama were Mr. and Mrs. Al Alberts. Mary left by bus for Columbus, Ga. to visit her daughter and son-in-law Capt. and Mrs. William Heisler at Fort Benning. Al flew there a few days later to visit, then they all drove to Fort Rucker, Alabama, to visit son Larry and attend activities of his graduation as a Warrant Officer from Helicopter Flight School. Mary pinned the wings on her son and he, in turn, pinned miniature wings on her. This is a very impressive ceremony and a very proud one for any parent. Larry drove his parents back to Texas and enjoyed a visit before departing for duty at Fort Lewis, Washington. He was initiated into the National Sojourners, A Masonic Organization for Officers of the Uniformed Services. He also visited friends and former classmates at Texas A&M.

Several members of Levis and Lace Square Dance Club, along with their caller, Slim Herrington and wife Nell, were joined by several members of the Hoedowners Club in Harker Heights to entertain the veterans at the V.A. Hospital in Temple Sunday. This program was sponsored by the local American Legion Auxiliary. Mrs. Frank Parks, Mrs. J. W. McCann and Mrs. O. F. Stapp accompanied the group and served refreshments.

Mrs. Al Alberts and Mrs. Ernest Mullen were in Fort Hood Monday as guests of Mrs. Neil Farrell and Mrs. Louis Hansen to attend the annual tea and fashion show presented by the Retired Officers Wives Club.

Mrs. Ed Futrell had surgery at the M&S Hospital in Georgetown Monday.

Florence Masonic Lodge to Honor 50 year Member.

Florence Lodge No. 338 will honor John Henry Griggs at its regular meeting on April 26. The ceremony will be open to the public and will commence at approximately 7:00 p.m. All relatives and friends are cordially invited. In keeping with a traditionally honored custom, the Grand Lodge to Texas provides that a member of the Masonic Fraternity who has served long and faithfully should be awarded a 50 year service certificate and lapel pin. The award will be presented by Joe Williams, District of Texas.

C. A. Brooks who has been a patient in the Veterans Hospital in Temple, returned home Friday.

At a recent meeting of Florence Chapter 440, Order of the Eastern Star, Mr. and Mrs. Al Alberts were elected to serve as Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron for the ensuing year. Their installation will be open one to be held on June 21 at 8:00 p.m. at the Jr. High Cafeteria. All their friends are invited to attend. Mrs. Ailene Houston, a past Worthy Grand Matron of Arlington will be the installing Grand Officer.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur C. Love of Austin spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Caskey.

In the Amendment election held Tuesday 153 votes were cast. Amendment No. 1, retired pay received 85 votes for and 67 votes against.

Amendment No. 2, received 56 votes for and 93 votes against.

The West End Home Demonstration Club met April 16 at the home of Mrs. O. F. Stapp. Mrs. Oran Davis called the meeting to order and Mrs. A. J. Wade led in the opening Roll call was answered with "My Biggest Yard Problem." The minutes were read and approved. Mrs. George Tucker reported on the council meeting. Mrs. Edwin Behrens gave a report on a meeting in Taylor on sewing and the metric system. She also brought some of her sewing to show the members.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Baker and Mrs. Wanda Reilly were in College Station Sunday attending Parents Day at A&M. The Bakers have 2 grandsons attending the University there.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Strawn were visitors in Austin the first of the week.

Miss Maravene Thomson of Austin was in Florence Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Parsons were in Georgetown Monday to visit her mother.

Mrs. M. G. Ryden was in Georgetown Monday to be with Mrs. Ed Futrell who had surgery.

'Saturday in the Park' May 10 in Taylor

The 90-member Taylor High School band, under the direction of Eugene Rhemann, has accepted an invitation to kick off "Saturday in the Park" with a 3 p.m. concert.

The May 10 celebration, sponsored by the Independent Cattlemen's Association of Williamson County, will be held in the Taylor City Park. The concert will be held across the named Outstanding Information Officer of the Year by the Air Force Reserve.

Major Tom Buckner has been named the Outstanding Information Officer of the Year for the entire Air Force Reserve. It has been announced by Major General John W. Hoff, commander of the Central Air Force Reserve Region.

Major Buckner is the information officer of the 433rd Tactical Airlift Wing, a 2,000-member reserve unit based at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio. Mission of the historic "Alamo Wing" is to keep its C-130 aircraft operationally ready. The reservists fly the workhorse aircraft to haul troops and cargo to all parts of the United States and to many foreign countries as a part of their training.

Last year Buckner was cited for editing the outstanding newspaper in the Air Force Reserve, "The Alamo Wing News." He was also named Outstanding Information Officer of the Year by the Central Region last year.

Alamo Wing commander Brig. Gen. Harry J. Huff said of Major Buckner: "We really have been fortunate to have a man of his talents here for the past three years. I think our information program could serve as a model for reserve units throughout the country."

In civilian life Buckner is director of news services at Southwestern University, Georgetown. He is also doing graduate work at the University of Texas School of Communication, Austin. Before entering graduate school he was editor of the San Marcos (Texas) Record.

Major Buckner is married to the former Helen Jones of Santa Rosa, Texas. They have two children, Bonnie, 16, and Bill, 13.

Beta Sigma Phi plans birthday

Beta Sigma Phi, a social, cultural and service organization for women, plans the celebration of the 44th Anniversary of its founding.

The Founder's Day luncheon for the Williamson County Council of Beta Sigma Phi will be held in Round Rock at the American Legion Hall on Saturday, April 26.

The Williamson County Council is made up of three chapters from Georgetown: Xi Xi Nu, Alpha Delta Alpha and Alpha Iota Theta; from Round Rock, Alpha Iota Tau and from Taylor, Alpha Kappa Omega.

Celebrations will take place in the twenty four countries in which the organization's 250,000 members in 10,500 chapters exist. The organization is not connected with any school or college and is non political and non sectarian.

The keynote of Beta Sigma Phi is friendship.

Mrs. Steve Schaefer, president of the organization, will be the toastmistress and the "Girl of the Year" from each of the five chapters will be recognized. Also a special "Girl of the Year" from the Williamson County Council will be recognized.

Golf tractor stolen Tuesday

The owner of the Golden Oaks Golf Driving Range reported a lawn tractor used to cut grass and pickup golf balls were stolen Tuesday from the driving range in Golden Oaks.

Norman Bostrom told the Sheriff's Department someone cut a hole in his chain link fence and then lifted the yellow and white tractor over the cut portion of the fence. The tractor was not in working condition, he said.

Southwestern Singers to perform in Chapel

The Southwestern Singers will perform Franz Schubert's "Mass in G Major" for the special Latin High Mass on Saturday, May 3, at 7:15 p.m. in Lois Perkins Chapel at Southwestern University in cooperation with St. Helen's Catholic Church of Georgetown.

The celebrant of the mass will be Father Rosendo Rafael of St. Williams Catholic Church in Round Rock and the deacon will be Father Charles Davis of St. Helen's Church, Georgetown. Parishioners of all churches are invited to attend the service.

Dr. Nelson F. Adams, Dean of the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University, will be the organist. Kenny Sheppard of the music faculty is director of the Southwestern Singers.

BRINGS BACK MEMORIES — to many oldtimers who remember hauling their cotton to the gin by team and wagon. Roy Bowman shared this picture with the SUN, showing his father, John Bowman on his wagon in the foreground. This gin was in Georgetown where the present gin is located across from the Georgetown Lumber Company. The gin is in the building on the left. At the right is the "roundhouse" where the cotton was stored in triangle bins for farmers who wanted to save the seed from their own cotton for future planting.

Near miss by big trucks

Two trucks owned by Moyer Trucking Co. narrowly avoided a head-on collision in Tuesday morning's heavy fog. Both vehicles ran off the roadway, but no one was injured.

A truck hauling gravel to Anderson Mill on State Highway 620 nearly collided with an empty truck returning from Anderson Mill at about 7:45 a.m.

Both drivers swerved hard to the right. The empty truck ran through a fence while the filled vehicle jackknifed and turned over.

No damage estimates have yet been made, according to a trucking firm spokesman.

Kind to animals' week proclaimed

Mayor Joe Crawford signed a proclamation Thursday morning naming May 4-12 as "Be Kind to Animals Week."

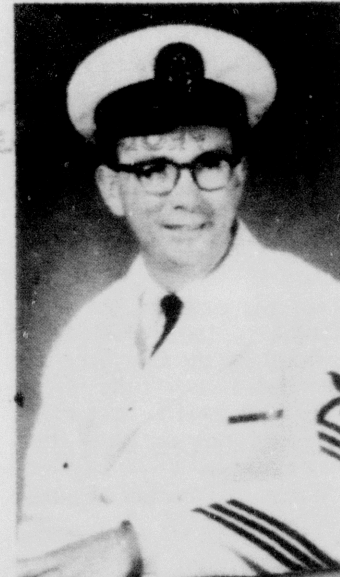

The proclamation reads that the week has been set as "the national week observing the philosophy of kindness to animals."

Sara Mabry and Doyle Nordyke of the Humane Society of Austin and Travis County attended the signing of the proclamation.

Nordyke said that 1700 animals were brought to the Austin Humane Society from Williamson County last year.

Vast majority favor living income for all retirees

Poll says most Americans favor aid for aged

By Louise Sweeney
Staff correspondent of
The Christian Science Monitor

Washington

A majority of Americans want more compassionate treatment of the nation's elderly in financial and job terms than now exists, reports a new Louis Harris survey on aging in America.

The 245 page Harris study, "The Myth and Reality of Aging in America," revealed:

• 97 percent of Americans believe that social security payments to the elderly should automatically increase with cost of living rises.

• 81 percent of the public think the federal government has the responsibility to use general tax revenues to help support older people. And 76 percent say that no matter what a person earned during his working years he should have enough money to live comfortably on when retired.

• 86 percent of the Americans polled oppose forced retirement at a fixed age if the worker wants to and is competent to continue, while 87 percent of those who do the hiring and firing admit "most employers discriminate against older people."

One of the members of Congress who deals with the problems of the aging is Sen. Frank Moss (D) of Utah, a member of the influential Special Committee on Aging and chairman of its Long-Term Care subcommittee.

Commenting on the poll, Senator Moss, says, "I'm opposed to mandatory retirement. It's much preferred that there be a board of some kind, of a medical and management type of committee that makes a decision so that those who are capable of working or want to go on to continue."

A summary of the Harris Poll, conducted for the National Council on Aging, Inc., concludes: "Older people of this country have the desire and the potential to be productive, contributing members of this society. They do not want to be put on the shelf."

One of the suggestions Senator Moss favors is that of a senior "job corps" providing jobs as a channel for using the talents of older Americans.

them apart in retirement, and contribute to this idea that they're no longer needed. They're just supposed to play shuffleboard or sit on the park bench or something of the sort."

Senator Moss suggested that one way to supply greater financial comfort for the elderly is stipulate there no longer be any limit on outside earnings of people who qualify for social security. He notes, too, that general revenues could be used for it. "We could supplement the Social Security Trust Fund from the general treasury, and then if the benefits were increased that money would pass out to those who qualify under social security."

Although President Ford has suggested holding down the social security cost-of-living increase to 5 percent, Senator Moss says "there is great resistance" in Congress to it and he expects the increase to be at the actual cost-of-living level. Speaking of the President's proposed freeze, he says, "It is an unfair thing because you're asking the group of citizens least able to withstand inflation and the high cost of living to bear a good part of the brunt there."

Mrs. Long named Memorial Chairman of Cancer Society

Mrs. W. F. Long of Leander has been appointed Memorial Chairman of the Southwest Williamson Unit of the American Cancer Society by Mr. Art Morrisette, Crusade Chairman of the unit.

The memorial program helps provide funds for the research, education and service programs of the Society and gives individuals an opportunity to give a lasting memorial to a loved one or acquaintance," says Mrs. Long.

Contributions may be sent to Mrs. Long at 111 Skyview Terrace, Route One, Leander, Texas 78641 and should include the name of the person memorialized, who the acknowledgement card should be sent to, and the donor's name and address. All memorials will be inscribed in the Society's permanent memorial file.

LONGING

To every child there comes a time when they begin to wonder... Where did I come from? Who made the trees? Who made the mountains? EVERYONE has a desire to know their creator. "O GOD, thou art my God; early will I seek thee; my soul thirsteth for thee..." This longing for knowledge of God should be satisfied at an early age. "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Plan NOW to attend church with your family.

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

The work on two of the buildings on main street is going at a rather rapid speed. One of them will long be remembered as "The Purser Store," for the late Elbert and Myrtle Purser operated it for a long time. The other one that is next to our new Liberty Hill Feed and Seed Store shall often be in the minds of some of us as "The Hickman Store" for the late Mr. Charlie Hickman operated it for many years; also before I came to LH it included a Bank and at that time was called Connell and Hickman. One pleasant memory of mine is that I met Mr. Carl Shipp who some times clerked in there, but soon became our postmaster, and he or Mr. Hickman always loved the little children and gave them a piece of candy.

The building that Mr. Mel Fowler has his shop in is getting a new front and may be more improvements. We are proud to have Mr. Mel Fowler he is a great sculptor.

On Monday, April 28, our Liberty Hill Junior High School Boy's and Girl's Track Teams will compete at the District 37 B Junior High Track Meet to be held at Belton.

The newly formed Liberty Hill Slow Pitch Softball Team held a practice game Wednesday night against a Georgetown Team with the Georgetown Team winning by the score of 32 to 25. Liberty Hill will be playing in the Georgetown League this summer and will start playing in the Georgetown Tournament Saturday.

KINDERGARTEN
REGISTRATION at our school will be on Wednesday, April 30, from one in the morning until four in the afternoon.

The Menu in our school for the week of April 28 through May 2 is as follows: MONDAY — Beef Stew, Cornbread, salad, peaches; TUESDAY — Burritos-Pizza, green beans, salad, apple cobbler; WEDNESDAY — Meatloaf, mashed potatoes, mustard greens and cake; THURSDAY — Chili Dog, French Fries, salad, and ice cream; FRIDAY — Bar-B-Q Beef on a bun, pinto beans, applesauce and salad; milk is served each day.

The Weblow Cub Scout Pack Meeting will be held Tuesday, April 29, at seven-thirty in the evening in the school.

At the last called meeting of the Panther Booster Club several items were acted upon by the members that were present. The Booster Club voted to donate fifty dollars to the Liberty Hill Little League Baseball Team program for purchase of uniforms. Also a work party composed of several Booster Club members and several baseball coaches was formed which moved the concession stand and made minor repairs to the baseball field the following Saturday morning.

Last Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Lackey had guests from Cedar Park, Mr. and Mrs. Cotter, their two children and a friend of theirs, Joe Schunsher. They came to the Lackeys to choose lambs for show purpose in the FFA. Their daughter, Mary and Joe Schunsher are in the FFA. The Cotter's have not been in

Greenbugs subsiding

The greenbug outbreak in Williamson County's grain sorghum crop apparently has subsided, County Agriculture Extension Agent John Wakefield said Friday.

"It looks like we're pretty well over the critical period for sorghum insects in the county," Wakefield said. "Only on very rare occasions should anyone have to use chemical treatments now."

Wakefield had warned a week ago that about 10,000 acres in the county had been infested with the light green aphids and that one of seven different insecticides could be used. "With this week's warmer weather, the plants are starting to grow pretty well. The beneficial insects are building up pretty rapidly also," he said. Wakefield said the warm weather has been slow in coming, but now the grain sorghum and cotton are starting to look more like they should for this time of year. "But we could still use a good two or three inch rain," he said.

John Chamberlin spent a weekend in the Williamson County Jail.

The Georgetown High School senior went to jail voluntarily as a special project for Home and Family Living class.

KEEP SMILING!

Chamberlin was isolated from other prisoners thus had little opportunity for conversation with them. However, he heard them.

"The horrendous flushing of toilets interrupted my sleep several times during the night — a combination of the final whooshing of water going down a drain and the dying gurgles of a tuberculo. The sound echoes off the jail's steel walls," Chamberlin explained.

Other prisoners yelled back and forth during the night and one arrested on a driving-while-intoxicated charge was sick at his stomach. The lights burn 24 hours in jail. Chamberlin's sleep was fitful.

"I did not find jail life unbearable, but I was only there for two days," he said. "I was talking to the jail trusty and he pointed out to me that awaiting trial is a pretty bad psychological ordeal. That can make the jail experience a really bad one."

Prisoners have no exercise period. The only physical activity they have is walking back and forth in their cells.

"I was not offended by a single roach during my entire sojourn and at various times of the day and night, Lysol is sprayed to clear up some of the smell of unwashed bodies combined with institutional food."

"My cell was approximately 18 by 7 feet and contained a single bunk, a bench and table, a sink, commode, and shower stall.

"Supplies delivered by the trusty included two blankets (which were clean but full of holes), a tin cup and plastic spoon and toilet paper.

"Notably lacking were soap, washcloth and towel. Drying after a shower was a different experience," he added.

Dim illumination was provided by a single naked light bulb in the corridor, Chamberlin carried a stack of books with him, but spent most of his time reading Truman Capote's book "In Cold Blood" the factual account of the 1959 multiple slayings of the Clutter family in Kansas and the subsequent capture of the convicted murderers, their stay in jail, their trial, death by hanging, etc.

FOOD

The evening meal (both Friday and Saturday) consisted of two sweet rolls with milk. I was pretty hungry Friday and could have eaten much more," Chamberlin remembered.

Breakfast was served at 6:30 Saturday morning: two hard-boiled eggs without salt, dry toast, and coffee. "Prisoners peel the eggs themselves," Chamberlin added.

Lunch was goulash, canned spinach, beans with pork, two slices unbuttered bread, and coffee. Everything was eaten with the plastic spoon.

Sunday lunch was special — steak in spoon-size hunks, mashed potatoes with gravy, green beans, a peach half and coffee.

READY TO LEAVE

"By Saturday night I was ready to go home and had to keep reminding myself that I only had a little more than twelve hours to go. To make time go faster, I hit the sack early," Chamberlin said.

His teacher Caroline Pinson came to get him out of jail about 2:30 p.m. Sunday. "I picked up my belt and 27 cents the jailer had required me to 'check-in' when I was committed."

"When I was home, I thoroughly enjoyed brushing my teeth again, showering and eating a second Sunday dinner," Chamberlin said.

Mrs. Holden dislikes staying indoors all the time and thinks

woman of many talents

It really isn't surprising that she could finish an 18 month correspondence course in twelve months. Her concentration is directed on whatever she happens to be interested in at a given moment; she has the ability to give interest and attention to many things.

The Holdens have recently relocated to a rural setting after having lived in Austin 25 years. Mrs. Holden likes living "out" in spite of a few inconveniences. The major drawback is the telephone line has not been brought out to where she lives and communications is a bit of a problem.

A strong trait of independence is found both in the family unit and as individuals. They firmly believe in self-sufficiency. As they point out, only two or three generations ago it was the norm — the pioneer way of life was still in everyone's blood. As yet they are not completely self-sufficient but it is a goal they are working on.

She not only sews for herself and her daughter but makes all her husband's and sons' suits from designing to tailoring them to fit beautifully, which is an accomplishment in that the boys are still growing with Kirk at 6'2".

Soybeans are an experiment. The family is in temporary housing for the moment. They plan to build their own home — literally. It will be of a unique nature and is designed and the plans drawn up by Kirk with collaboration and input from others in the family. It will be geodesic in form with ferro-cement applied to the outside and possibly a plastic sprayed on the inside wall. The bedrooms, living area and two bathrooms will be on the outer perimeter. The walls with the kitchen in the center. The kitchen will be open to the top of the dome — giving the feeling of space will let her feel she is outdoors. I asked if they were building this type home just to be different and the reply was "No, it is less expensive, we can do it ourselves and by comparison, it is fast, and I like the freedom of space." Then I asked, "Are you excited about it, are you looking forward to it?" "After living in this mobile home YES!" was her answer.

To one not accustomed to seeing the geodesic form it appears way out and weird. In actuality nothing could be more practical and logical as they are quick and simple to assemble and quite inexpensive compared to conventional framed buildings. Tobin and Kirk prepared and assembled a geodome one Saturday that is used for storage. Another one is assembled and awaiting a covering. It will be a greenhouse. They plan to build one to accommodate chickens. Being geometric they are more stable and sound than conventional buildings. The wind goes around instead of buffeting as it does an ordinary structure. Much research and reading has been shared by the family, not only concerning the geodesic forms but other things as well.

As Mrs. Holden said, "Everything happens to me in the library." She wants to study more about pyramids. There is a theory about the pyramid's ability to preserve and Kirk will build one to experiment with. Being the mathematician in the family he is always using it to carry out ideas.

It was also at the library while waiting for the children to select books that Mrs. Holden came upon a book about graphology. She read the book, then bought her own copy. That was four or five years ago. A few months prior to moving out to the acreage, Mrs. Holden began a correspondence course that usually requires eighteen months to complete. Her certification came in twelve months from the International Graphoanalysis Society, Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Holden is now trained to identify personality traits in people without the necessity of meeting them personally, using samples of their handwriting for analysis purposes, however she prefers to have a face to face encounter to explain the outcome of her study.

Certificate authorizes Mrs. Holden to prepare personality assessment reports based on Graphoanalysis for individuals and business firms; lecture to civic, service and social organizations whose members may be interested in learning about the subject; and conduct Introductory Basic Steps programs in Graphoanalysis, for adult education groups in her area.

Mrs. Holden points out that the services of Graphoanalysts are being used to facilitate personnel selection. "In Europe,"

Mrs. Holden said, "Many companies do not make changes in management or place workers on a job without having those being considered Graphoanalyzed."

It is also used for credit risk evaluation as well as for questioned document examination work. She advises too, that the Graphoanalytical system of personality assessment is recognized as a valuable aid in counseling work and is used by personal, marital, vocational and child guidance counselors in many parts of the world.

The scientific techniques used are based on a well-defined, standardized method of identifying strokes, relating these to specific personality traits and evaluating the relative strength of the interrelating traits. Most psychologists agree that there is a correlation between the constitutional, mental and emotional characteristics of an individual and the way he forms his strokes in handwriting. Mrs. Holden informs us that it doesn't matter if the pen was held by teeth, toes or hand; if it's doodles, an original composition or a copied document written in native or foreign language, the strokes reflect the writer's personality and character.

Mrs. Holden has her Certification framed and Code of Ethics signed and is ready to go to work. She is ready to use her training in any positive manner opportunity brings. She wants to help people to realize what they have.

She shared a quote with me that sums up her feelings too. It is from Miss Violet W. Fineran, Galesburg, Ill., "The greatest good we can do for others is not just to share our riches with them but to reveal their riches to themselves."

Lou Holden will address the Georgetown Study Club Tuesday, April 29 in the home of Lee Rehler.

SWEEPSTAKES WINNING GIRLS' CHOIR — of Georgetown High School captured themselves a trophy and a title at Wednesday's U.I.L. Concert and Sight Reading Contest, making them a Sweepstakes Choir. They earned this by getting a first division rating for their performance of three numbers and also a first division rating for sight-reading. This was the first Sweepstakes Choir at GHS since 1966 (when their director was a member of the choir). Director Sara White said, "I am extremely proud of both choirs, this one and the A/Cannella choir. Their

FFA AWARDS — were presented by FFA Advisor Ronald Leps to, left to right, Steve Bamsch, STAR GREENHAND, selected as the outstanding student from Vocational Agriculture I class on the basis of grades, leadership, production project and participation in FFA activities. Breeding and feeding of swine was his project. Mike Klepac, STAR CHAPTER FARMER, was selected on the same basis from Vocational Agriculture II class. His projects this year was breeding and feeding swine and breeding livestock. John Cassens, OUTSTANDING PRODUCTION PROJECTS, is a senior VoAg IV student who has been outstanding in his breeding and feeding swine and beef. This year he had a Reserve Champion. Raymond Nemec, LEADERSHIP award for serving as chapter president, for being an active member involved in junior and senior leadership contests, poultry, livestock and land judging contests, and for his other leadership activities both on and off the Jarrell High School campus.

JARRELL FFA AWARDS

Cassens gets De Kalb Accomplishment Award

John Cassens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cassens, was recently named winner of the 1975 DeKalb Accomplishment Award Tuesday night at the annual FFA Banquet by his FFA advisor, Ronald Leps.

The award, sponsored by Dekalb AgResearch, Inc., is presented to the outstanding senior in vocational agriculture departments around the country. He was chosen for the award on the basis of his scholarship, leadership and supervised farming program.

John has served his chapter as Sentinel and Treasurer, Senior class secretary, and freshman class treasurer. He served as District Treasurer for the Cen-Tex District FFA. John received the Lone Star farmer degree in FFA during his Junior year. His agriculture program consists of breeding and feeding swine and beef production.

Following graduation, John plans to attend Blinn Junior College and major in agriculture education. As this year's DeKalb accomplishment award winner, John's name will be inscribed along with previous winners on a special honors plaque provided by Dekalb AgResearch, Inc. Dekalb is a leading supplier of hybrid seeds, poultry and swine breeding stock and livestock marketing services.

TOP AWARD — went to John Cassens, the DeKalb Accomplishment Award, being presented as the climax of the Jarrell FFA Banquet by FFA Advisor Ronald Leps.

Travis Thomas hotly denies connection with cruel prank

They intended to smear me, and they did it," he said.

Thomas said the investigation of the prank "laid dormant for a few days" because he thought the sheriff's office was handling it, while the sheriff assumed the case was in Thomas' jurisdiction.

"These two fellows must have hid out for a while, and then when we got deeply involved in it in the past few days, they went to the papers with this story about me. If they can sell their story, then they've got a legal defense of entrapment," he said, explaining that entrapment occurs if a law enforcement official lures someone into committing a crime, and then arrests him for it.

"The whole idea that I'd do something like that (proposing the prank) is absurd. I haven't talked to anyone around town who believes it," he said.

Thomas said he was so upset when he read Thursday's accusation that the incident was his idea that he called Col. Wilson Spier, director of the Department of Public Safety, at the DPS Austin headquarters.

"I called Col. Spier and asked him to let the DPS take a look at the whole situation so my name would be cleared. He said he'd send someone," said Thomas, himself a highway patrolman from 1958 until 1974.

"I started to have the sheriff's office investigate it, but it seemed best to have it handled by an outside party so people wouldn't start yelling that it's a whitewash."

Already investigating the incident are the Texas Attorney General's Office and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Both received complaints from R. C. Hullum, owner of Hullum Grocery and a candidate for sheriff in the past two elections.

Hullum told the Sun that at about 3 or 4 a.m. following the incident at the sheriff's office, his 24-year-old son Ricky woke up and noticed two men unloading through a pickup truck normally driven by Hullum's other son, Mike, 17.

Going outside, Ricky discovered the two men were Chief Thomas and Deputy Sheriff Danny Reid.

"Ricky asked them what was wrong, and they indicated he should mind his own business. They said they wanted the key to the metal toolbox in the rear of the pickup," Hullum said.

Hullum said his son came into the house and woke him up.

"When I got out there, they were kind of dumbfounded that I had seen them. Reid said he wanted permission to come in and search Mike's room because they thought he had done this thing over at the Sheriff's office.

"I said no, they couldn't search, but I said I'd be happy to bring Mike down in the same clothes he was wearing that night," he said.

Asked about the alleged search of the pickup Hullum said, "I don't care whether they admit to searching my pickup or not, my son saw them searching it."

He said the hood and doors of the pickup were open when he got outside himself.

"These fellows could have come up to the door and woke me up, but they didn't. They didn't have a warrant and they didn't have my permission and I think they violated my constitutional right to privacy," he said.

Chief Thomas was quoted in the Marble Falls paper April 17 saying he searched the pickup without a warrant or permission.

But he told the Sun that the Highlander reporter misquoted him.

"I never said I searched it. What I said was, 'we went up there and looked in the pickup,'" Thomas said.

He said the doors to the pickup were closed, but he declined to say if he actually searched the pickup.

"I can't say whether we searched it. When I search anything, I look in all the nooks and crannies and cubicles until I find what I'm looking for, and I didn't find anything," he said.

Thomas then explained to the Sun that he wasn't trying to be evasive, but is hesitant to talk about the pickup truck incident because a lawsuit may be filed, and whatever he said might be thrown at him in court.

"I don't really want to talk about it. Hullum's made all kinds of noises about a suit, and if he's going to sue us, I don't believe I ought to talk about it," Thomas said.

Hullum said he is indeed considering a suit. "From what I can tell, I do have a lawsuit, and in all probability, I will pursue it."

"Chief Thomas is a fine, civic-minded person, and I've always believed he was a fine officer. But still, there's right and wrong, and I know I've been wronged," Hullum said, noting his own background of 20 years as a deputy sheriff in Burnet and Travis Counties.

Thomas said he had never heard of Odneal before, but that he had once talked to Nelson in connection with an investigation. He said Nelson had not been under investigation himself, but had been "on the periphery."

But the chief pointed out that a man who admitted to driving the pair's getaway car, Damon Hensel, probably had a grudge.

HONORARY FFA — Chapter Farmer awards went to Buck Jones and Emil Danek, presented by FFA president Raymond Nemec. These men were elected by the FFA members to receive this award. Two members are elected each year and presented a plaque and certificate. The selection is based on contribution to the FFA organization. Both of these men are buyers at both county livestock shows; they help furnish transportation for the students and their projects and sponsor many other FFA activities.

Miss Georgetown to be chosen

Miss Georgetown for 1975 will be chosen from a slate of seven beautiful Georgetown young ladies in the annual contest Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Southwestern University Student Union Building.

There is no admission charge and everyone is invited.

Out of town judges will make the decision. Entertainment will be provided by Spectrum, the Georgetown High School Pop Choir directed by Sara White.

Master of ceremonies will be Chamber of Commerce president Don Hewlett, who will introduce the contestants in swimsuit, Sunday dress and interview competition.

The contestants are Miss Ollie Ann Myers, a student at Southwestern University, the daughter of Major and Mrs. Maynard Myers. She was nominated by Alpha Delta Alpha.

Miss Susan Parsons, daughter of Mrs. Betty Parsons, is a student at The University of Texas and was nominated by the Georgetown Business Women's League.

Miss Debbi Williamson, daughter of M. and Mrs. Robert Williamson, is a Georgetown High School senior and was nominated by the Kiwanis Club.

Miss Debra Earls was nominated by the Socialite Club. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sanders, Jr. and a senior at Georgetown High School.

Miss Karin Soulen, Southwestern University student and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Soulen, was nominated by the Lions Club.

Miss Iva Wolf, Baylor University student and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Wolf, Sr., was nominated by the Georgetown Study Club.

Miss Debbie Thomas was the choice of the Georgetown Young Homemakers, a Georgetown High School senior and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Thomas.

Miss Georgetown will represent her city on the Georgetown float in many parades this summer, in other invited official capacities and will compete in the Miss Austin Aqua Beauty Contest in August.

Old bank for sale

County Commissioner Wesley Johnson said he agreed.

"I don't think that kind of building would benefit us any," Johnson said. "We're not too worried about office space."

He pointed out the building has no back entrance.

"I wouldn't say we couldn't save money by keeping the building, but I don't want to talk about it until we get it sold," he said.

Commissioner Wesley Foust said he wasn't aware of a need for more offices, "other than the complaints we've been hearing for years from people wanting more room."

"I don't think we're really hurting for space. We can always do some department-shifting here and there, using other than county offices," Foust said.

The building was last occupied Feb. 18 by the County School Superintendent and the Williamson-Burnet County Opportunities, Inc.

BUILDING PERMITS

Seven building permits for new houses have been issued for April, already matching the March total, according to the Georgetown Building Department.

A total of 27 permits for new houses have been issued this year.
